Having to find/purchase tools while your toilet is currently “out of service” is a real pain.

Lontopheresis, a physical therapy technique that employs electricity to draw verapamil into the plaque has some data to support its efficacy.